Let's Start!

What's on your shopping list? Milk? Bread?

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information about travel and vacations in social situations.

Ask your partner:

- What are some things you buy at the market?
- Do you buy many things from the market? Why or why not?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about food.
- I can express general quantities using some and any.
- I can express general quantities using many and much.

Let's Explore!

Aunt Nelly is at the market but she forgot her list at home. What was on it?

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Vanessa: Hello.
- Aunt Nelly: Hi, honey. I left my shopping list at home. Can you check the fridge for me and tell me what I need to buy?
- Vanessa: Okay, let me look. Alright, we don't have much milk left.
- Aunt Nelly: Okay. I'm going to grab some cartons of milk.
- Vanessa: Can you get some jam? There isn't much left.
- Aunt Nelly: Okay. Is there any cream cheese?
- Vanessa: There's some cream cheese.
- Aunt Nelly: Did you look in the freezer?
- Vanessa: There isn't any vanilla but there is some chocolate ice cream.
- Aunt Nelly: Okay, now check the pantry. What do we need?
- Vanessa: I don't see many jars of tomato sauce.
- Aunt Nelly: Okay. Are there any onions?
- Vanessa: Yes, there's a lot. There aren't many snacks either. Can you get some?
- Aunt Nelly: Of course!

Let's Practice!

Learning Points

Much, Many, Some, Any

Much and many are quantifiers. You use many with count nouns to talk about the number of items. You use much with non-count nouns to talk about the amount or quantity of an item.

You can also use some and any. The words some and any are used for count and non-count nouns.

Some means a few or a little and any can mean none or a few or a little.

When you use any in a question, it means a few. In a negative sentence, it means none.

Examples:

- There are many dishes from India.
- Does this contain any vegetables?
- Some dishes don't have much meat in them.
- There is not much rice here.
- There isn't any here.
